Growing up, Jake participated in a variety of sports, but excelled in golf, and continued a career as a pro. He won his first tournament at the age of 15. After graduating from high school, he went on to Florida State University, where he had a position on the golf team. Unfortunately, he was injured in a water skiing accident, which resulted in surgery, and he was unable to play the game sport. Luckily, for fans of Jake's music, he decided, while recovering from his injury to pick up the guitar, and soon he played in a local bar. This led to his interest in songwriting, and later to his move to Music City. While opening a savings account in Nashville, Jake talked to teller, and mentioned that he was a singer and songwriter. She asked him if he had any recordings, and he gave her a CD of his songs, which she passed on to the Warner/Chappell Music publishing house. The next step towards Owen getting his record deal was to meet songwriter and producer Jimmy Ritchey. They got together with Chuck Jones to write some songs, and the result was the song Ghosts. They beat it to Kenny Chesney, who put it on hold but didn't record it. But the song got Owen noticed by Sony BMG executives, who signed him to a record deal with RCA Records. This is where Owen was asked to change his name, not to be confused with Josh Turner or Josh Gracin. Jake released his first single Yee Haw in early 2006, and it became his first Top 20 single, peaking at No. 16 on the charts. His debut album, Startin' With Me, was released in the summer of 2006. He was recognized that year as a unit for both Brad Paisley and Carrie Underwood. Owen had further success with his second single, the title track, which spent more than thirty-five weeks on the charts, becoming his first Top 10 song, peaking at No. 6. In 2007, Owen was added as the opening act for Alan Jackson and Brooks & Dunn. He released his third single, Something About a Woman, in September, and then joined Sugarland's CMT Change for Change Tour, along with Little Big Town. It was on this tour that the three acts began performing the Dream Academy song Life in a Northern Town during shows. They also performed it at the CMT Music Awards 2008. I Jake released his second album, Easy Does It, which debuted at No. 2 on the Billboard Country Albums chart. The lead single, Don't Think I Can't Love You is Jake's highest listing single to date, sits at No. 4 on April 11, 2009, the Billboard Country Songs chart. Calling all country-music fans! Last weekend, Allure took Vegas. We set up the store at Content Creator Studio run by Cracker Barrel while backstage at the Academy of Country Music Awards Party for A Cause Festival to say hello to our favorite country stars—and let them make their own dream version of an Allure Beauty Box. So what's that for you? We created duplicates of each box and got the artists to sign theirs and we give them away. The Allure Beauty Box is known for the fact that our editors curate it, but this is a unique opportunity to pick up the exact products your favorite singer was drawn to. Here's a sneak peek at what's in store in every box: Kelsea Ballerini features Alterna Replenishing Moist milk because she's obsessed with taking care of her hair. With all the heat styling she (and practically every other girl) puts her hair through, protecting and nourishing is key. Maddie and Tae, who made separate boxes, included Kaplan MD Lip 20 Treatment and Laneige Water Sleeping Mask, respectively. Strangely enough, their lips and faces get extra dry by singing into a microphone and traveling all the time. Kellie Pickler was in Klorane Dry Shampoo for quick and easy hair touch-ups in the middle of a busy week. This dry shampoo is a favorite among editors as well. For full details on how to win one of the four special edition boxes, click on this link.
